FRANKNESS PREPARED

For most of the ladies and gentlemen of the house of representatives, and for a third of the standing in the senate, Nov. 7 to 10 day—

—D standing for decision. On that date American voters will invade the polls.

The decision they'll make is giving these lawmakers an understandable case of pre-invasion jitters, except in the case of solid southern conservatives whose nomination amounts to election.

Consequently the congressmen are anxious not only to mend fences, but to construct a few gun emplacements against attacks of opponents who, not being lynched on Capitol Hill, are free to move among the invaders.

Congressional leaders have let it be known that although congress will formally recess on August 1, the last day of a quorum will probably be taken up with three-day recesses while the lawmakers maneuver among their constituents.

Well, congressmen have always campaigned, and this year won't be any different. But it does seem a little disingenuous of some of them to infer that there is nothing of pressing importance that requires their attention until September. We can think of several things that could stand doing quickly.

And congressmen, plumed down in a game of truth consequences, could probably think of several more.

There's a postwar aviation muddle, for one thing, and the problem of what to do with our big industrial plant which has been a lot of preventive medicine for reconversion approaches has yet to be prescribed. Demobilization and the size of the postwar army and navy will have to be considered.

All that we know about postwar taxes is Senator Barkley's suggestion that they may be reduced by half. The if and how remain to be determined, and there are the pros and cons of the income tax which will be a very important thing to consider.

Fortunately—even for congress candidates—the Allied advance isn't taking time out for a leisurely campaign. It isn't complicity to meet the war, but it is a very real thing to think to suggest the possibility that the war in Europe might end more quickly than is generally expected, leaving a lot of important postwar legislation still undecided.

We can't ask or expect congressmen seeking re-election to forego the usual stump speaking and buttonholing, even though some might be tempted to do so.

For a frank statement from them in this vein: "We know there's a lot to be done. But we'd rather make a month's legislative deal than take the chance of campaigning on our records, and by proxy."

A HORRIBLE TRAGEDY

It was a terrible tragedy, the death of a 15-year-old girl who slipped and fell into Snake river canyon while she was playing with a group of picknickers near Shoshone falls.

The thought of falling into that yawning space below the canyon's towering cliffs gives one the shivers. There is something about it all that is terrifying.

Although the incident is raised after an occurrence of this kind, there is nothing much that can be done in the way of safety measures to avoid such tragedies because we have millions of miles of canyons through Twin Falls county and every single foot of that canyon is dangerous. To fence it in its entirety would be almost out of the question.

There are constant just claims to be a natural part of our country. It is not uncommon to find children playing almost any place along its walls. On occasion youngsters even climb down on the faces of these cliffs as they dare one another to follow the leader.

Actually we are fortunate in Magic Valley that many more boys and girls do not lose their lives in this manner because youngsters are highly impulsive even in the face of danger.

This latest tragedy should warn us once more that Snake river—its currents, rapids, and treacherous and precipitous canyon walls—is dangerous and as such should be respected at all times.

Now is an appropriate time for all parents to impress upon their youngsters the importance of being cautious, to matter in what form the children may be availing themselves of the river's many charming but treacherous attractions.

GRAND STRATEGY

"Because the enemy has landed troops on Salpian," says Admiral Nobunasa Suetsugu, "the enemy task force faces the predicament of not being able to tie. This is just to our liking."

Undoubtedly this clever tactic is a part of Tolo's grand strategy of planting his neck firmly under Uncle Sam's heel.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL

RENOMINATION—President Roosevelt's announcement that he would be willing to run again, although not in the usual political sense, bears out this writer's forecast that he would try to be more frank in 1944 than he was in 1940.

Four years ago he was completely open in the last minute of the convention. Today he is brutally explicit.

Here is the inside story of the supposed "deal" between F. D. R. and the nation's political leaders.

When Postmaster General Frank B. Rowland, a Democrat, was elected national chairman, the President looked around for a smart, young politician whom he could count on.

He did not want another James A. Farley because, as the Irishman demonstrated, four years ago he may again at Chicago next week, he has a mind of his own.

Mr. Hanneken immediately did the bidding of the White House. He plunged into the game and for a fifth term. He endorsed himself to the chief executives with enthusiasm. He was a political jockey to the hilt.

F. D. R. blessed the man who suggested the St. Louis bid as his political spokesman. Under the "deal" he "behind the scenes" one, it does appear that Mr. Roosevelt makes the thought of a renomination but will accept it only because he is against the "indispensable man."

Justification the writer takes a bow for being the first to reveal that the President would take a fourth term. In April this column quoted his statement that he would not run for a fourth term.

But D. R. killed their hopes as soon as he entered the White House. He was a political jockey to the hilt.

He "revels your person," he snarled in a militant tone. "This is a church service, not a political meeting, and no pictures can be taken!"

PRAYER—Mr. Roosevelt's behavior on the night he delivered his D-day prayer broadcasted both his friends and enemies. His conduct suggested even to the most ardent of his supporters that he was a man of a different kind.

13-Year-Old Southpaw Beaten 2-0; Locals Drop Second Contest, 17-6

POCATELLO, July 17.—Gene Osterlander's Twin Falls juniors lost both games in their bid for the southern Idaho junior American Legion championship here yesterday but it wasn't the fault of the local club's 13-year-old southpaw who looks like the great Carl Hubbell and pitches like him, too. He held the veteran Pocatello team to only four hits but his mates threw him down at the bat and he lost, 2-0, in the afternoon game.

Pocatello won the second contest played under the lights of Hawell park, 17-6. The Twin Falls victory made a third contest unnecessary and gave the home club the right to play Payette for the title in the American Legion's national junior baseball competition.

Being a team which boasted a number of burly high school stars, the Pocatello team was in fine form. Both runs came off first in the first and second innings and only one of them was earned.

Sato, the first Pocatello batter, walked in but was out at the plate. The fault of the local club's 13-year-old southpaw who looks like the great Carl Hubbell and pitches like him, too. He held the veteran Pocatello team to only four hits but his mates threw him down at the bat and he lost, 2-0, in the afternoon game.

Pocatello won the second contest played under the lights of Hawell park, 17-6. The Twin Falls victory made a third contest unnecessary and gave the home club the right to play Payette for the title in the American Legion's national junior baseball competition.

Being a team which boasted a number of burly high school stars, the Pocatello team was in fine form. Both runs came off first in the first and second innings and only one of them was earned.

Jim Russell Sets Pace as Local Golfers Beat Sun Valley, Buhl

The Sun Valley navy hospital and Buhl golfers found the Twin Falls stars better than their average best in a triangular match at the Twin Falls municipal links Sunday and as a result went home defeated for a second time.

With eight of its 13 golfers showing 82 or better, Twin Falls rang up 1,146 points to 732 for Sun Valley and 630 for Buhl. Twelve points were awarded for each hole won six for a two-way tie and four for a three-way.

The team recruited by Course Master Fred Stone won 10 of 12 three-peats. Jimmy Russell, George Carlson, L. C. Leonard, Glen Taylor, Charles Pultman, Al Nelson, Dick Soren, "Spartan" Leichter, Bob Mink and Frank Horvath, while Sun Valley took two (H. W. Siegfried, M. B. Brigham and Buhl one (Olin Smith).

Russell repeated his performance of two weeks ago when he won the low medal score. The high school sophomore went on 28, equalling par, and came home in 74. Score had a 77 and went on 28.

Bantam and Feather Champions Battle in Boston Bout Tonight

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—A "battle of champions" between Willie Pep and Manuel Ortiz at Braves field, Boston, tonight features this week's national boxing schedule.

Pep, Hartford, Conn., who is recognized as featherweight titleholder in New York and affiliated states, is favored over Ortiz, El Centro, Calif., world's undisputed bantamweight king, in this non-title 10-round bout.

Madison Square Garden resumes fight activities Thursday night with a 10-rounder between two lightweight knockout artists—the Williams, Trenton, N. J., and Julie McGowan, New Haven, Conn.

Sun Valley Beats Locals, 13-1, Despite Bubak's Great Playing

The Sun Valley navy hospital all-stars defeated the Twin Falls stars in a softball game at Joyce park Sunday night. The score was 13-1 but that's not one-half of what it would have been had not the veteran Charles "Chuck" Bubak been playing fifth base for the locals.

Bubak, whose son, Bill, played first base gave an exhibition in a 77 and went on 28.

Salute to a Lady

By Victoria Wolf.

Exulting as a Red Cross Nurse after her American husband has been killed in action, German-born Charlotte Hesse underwent hospital training. Her particular group is called "The Frontier" day and night. The nurse's army commissions upon graduation, and fly under orders to a secret destination.

ARRIVAL AND WELCOME

It was 6 o'clock in the morning when we awoke in front of the hospital to step into that miraculously clean station wagon for the day's drive through Alberta. Our destination this time was revealed to us, but as I had such a $4 name it is easy for me to follow instructions and not mention it.

The drive through the country was beautiful. The road along the eastern border of the province, between the mountains and the sea, was just what the doctor ordered. Deep red cliffs look down on the asphalt blue of the sea while the green of the forest contrasts with the azure of the sky. After leaving us in the town of Banff, the hills and came to a road which was a masterpiece of engineering, as it led us down the side of a mountain. Here you could feel the barren emptiness of the country beyond and behind you could see the poverty of the primitive of the innocent simplicity, but at the end of it all.

It was midday when we came to Canmore, a romantic old town, standing out dangerously on a rocky pinnacle. We stopped in front of a Georgian house and suddenly looked into the maw of the earth, the blue depths of the canyon of the Rhinoceros. It is a marvelous setting; chasm, perpendicular cliffs, natural rock bridges and tunnels, towering precariously to the silver stars of the river.

We bought some dates at the market, where the peasants offered their goods. A very beautiful Jewish girl—she was unveiled, a fact which revealed both her religion and her beauty—while our little face became distorted with fear and she hesitated to pass us the dates.

"Don't you see that we all come from the Bronx?" Yvonne joked in her broadest English French. "This didn't make sense to the girl. Beyond of understanding and full of distrust she stared into our smiling faces to read the truth. Elizabeth saved the situation and our dates. With the tip of her shoe she etched the sign of the swastika in the sandy ground and spat on it! That was a language the girl understood, and with a relieved smile gave us a double amount of dates."

From now on our way must be shrouded in mystery. This is no speculation, we didn't talk much; some smoked, some slept. Mail hummed softly; she had a very melodious little voice, not like a radio crooner, and her wondrous nose was moodily controlling.

"Isn't it strange," whispered Elizabeth who sat next to me, "that days ago we were still in California among the most carefree people and all of a sudden we find ourselves in this wilderness headed for war? How much money we owe the government! I hope we'll be worth it."

"Here we are," said our driver, stopping somewhere in impenetrable darkness.

"Here? You mean this it is?"

BOARDING HOUSE MAJOR HOOPLE

SAN, COMMANDER, I NOTICED A TIN CAN HAD BEEN ABOUT TO FLY BEHIND US FOR TWO HOURS—ARE WE FOLLOWING HIM? WE'RE MOVING, THEN THE TIN CAN MUST BE FOLLOWING US!

"Yes, lady, this is it." "No kidding!" It was below his dignity to answer such an insult. We got out, and opened the door. Not a sound, not a light, not a movement indicated that we were within reach of any human settlement.

"Follow me," he said. In Indian file, as the path was narrow to go side by side, we followed his flashlight through a grove of palms and suddenly stood in front of a white house which looked just like all the cubical town-halls of the village we had passed through.

Without our ringing a bell or making any noise, the entrance door opened. Come in please, come in please, said a woman's voice.

I hadn't visualized any sort of arrival; but this one indeed, in its ghastly flavor took my breath away.

Yet the hostess immediately inside the house and we were welcomed with smiles, handshakes and cheers by Dr. Merrill and Miss Fryberg, the chief nurse.

We were in a large empty room, the new and head-quarters of the three-day-old hospital. "We tried help respectively," Dr. Merrill said. "and we are impressed by the quick arrangement of your trip."

We converted three of these barren rooms into wards. Five barbers were in the kitchen, and the head of the house, Mrs. Fryberg, in exactly the same tone and manner as the doctor.

She wore a light gray uniform, the collar and cap of which had lost the immaculate whiteness of a nurse's token. Dark circles of exhaustion under her eyes revealed the discipline of her voice. Her hands looked surprisingly old, her face 10 years younger. I liked and trusted her immediately though I am slow in opening my heart to a complete stranger, but her face bore that indescribable sign of great suffering which draws me to a woman without the need of words.

Dr. Merrill left the room quickly and Miss Fryberg led us to a kitchen where she called the kitchen "help yourselves," she said.

Tracking Down America's Forest Fire-Bugs...

... with J. EDGAR HOOVER
the Nation's FBI Chief

THIS IS AN EMERGENCY!

Something's got to be done right now about brush and woods and forest fires in America. We face enormous losses—in watersheds, timber, water power and manpower—unless you who might start such fires are extra careful. So please read these rules. Please memorize them. Remember that this year, with so many men away, there may be GREATER DANGER THAN EVER to America's woodlands and forests.

Hardened criminals give us practically no trouble in American forests. They haven't much motive for burning trees.

Saboteurs? Yes, there's always danger from enemy acts of arson, but up to now we've been able to keep tabs on foreign agents and prevent them from doing any damage to forest areas.

How about honest citizens? Now that's really a problem. It's hard to believe, but the average, law-abiding American citizen is our worst enemy when it comes to woods and brush and forest fires.

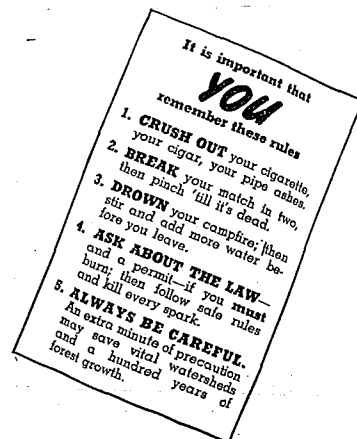

Naturally, he doesn't mean to be. No one ever does. Too many people simply get careless in the woods. A land-clearing fire that "got away," a campfire left to die out, a glowing match tossed away, a lit cigarette butt—these are the real clues to timber destruction.

You don't believe it? Here are the facts: Each year about 31,000,000 acres of forest land are burned through plain carelessness; 31,000,000 acres that should be producing wood, that should also be storing up water for electric power and irrigation.

And what about this year? Just this. With skeleton crews to police and protect our forests, and mighty few able-bodied men at home to fight woods and forest fires, there's real trouble ahead unless you—and that means you—are willing to help.
